

J. STACY HORN, VICE PRESIDENT, SOUTHERN REGION

Stacy Horn joined Meritage in March, 2010. Stacy oversees the company's operations in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. He provides leadership to a variety of key initiatives, including the company's gas gathering system in the Eagle Ford Shale region in South Texas. The Eagle Ford Shale, which stretches from the Mexican border along the Gulf Coast toward Louisiana, covers more than 10 million acres.

Prior to joining Meritage, Horn served as Vice President of Commercial Development for Eagle Rock Energy. He joined Eagle Rock in 2004 and helped grow the organization from a staff of five to a publicly traded company that today employs over 300 people. Horn's 22 years of commercial experience include the time spent with Delhi Gas Pipeline, Teco Pipeline, PG&E Gas Transmission, El Paso, and Enterprise Products.

"I'm thrilled to be part of the leadership team at Meritage," says Stacy. "I've devoted my career to growing midstream assets and producer relationships. This is a management team that knows how to make things happen in both arenas."

Horn received Bachelor of Science degrees in Industrial Technology and Geology from Sam Houston State University in 1984. He earned his Masters in Business Administration from the same university in 1986. He is a member of Houston Gas Processors Association.

Stacy loves to travel and spend time with his wife Brenda and his pets. He also enjoys building and driving off-road vehicles and hot rod cars. In his spare time, you can always find him in his shop working on a project.
